Coromandel Peninsula

An area immensely popular with Kiwis everywhere, so you know this place must be something special. The Coromandel is one of the most popular and best loved holiday destinations in New Zealand, and you'll easily be able to see why.

The abundant serenity attracts 'alternative lifestyle aficionados' away from the hustle and bustle of Auckland, but most come for the best beaches on the North Island and coastal scenery unrivalled anywhere. With a backdrop of rugged hills and mountains draped with lush green native forest, the pristine white sandy beaches offer a marked and pleasant contrast.

Rotorua

One of New Zealand's best known tourist spots, the steaming crevasses, bubbling mud pools and hot springs lead the way to invigorating thermal baths. Rotorua, on the 'Volcanic Plateau' and the 'Pacific Rim of Fire' is more than a hydrothermal sideshow though, much more.

It's also an important cultural centre for the Maori, ancestral home to the Te Arawa people and one of the most accessible to outsiders. The culture is alive in their arts, crafts, architecture, traditional 'hangi' feasts and in long remembered song and dance.

Of course, this being New Zealand, adrenaline filled activities get a look in too. One of the best mountain biking circuits in the country, zorbing, skydiving and plenty else, mean you'll probably need a relaxing thermal soak by the time you're finished in Rotorua.

Bay of Plenty

The highest proportion of sunshine days in the whole of the country makes this one of New Zealand's most blessed regions, not only some of the finest agricultural land around, but the beaches aren't too shabby either.

Captain James Cook found plenty to his liking here, hence the name, and chances are you'll discover a great deal to keep you interested and amused too. The local Maori dialect is spoken all over this area, and you can easily immerse yourself in the fascinating Maori culture, enjoy a 'hangi' feast or simply relax on the many beautiful beaches.

Napier

Napier is famous as one of the finest examples of an Art Deco city anywhere in the world but there's so much more! Situated at the southern end of Hawkes Bay, palm trees fringe the city streets, parks and gardens punctuate the blocks of art deco buildings at frequent intervals and a Mediterranean climate all combine to create a superb atmosphere.

Friendly people, great restaurants offering various culinary delights and over 30 local Hawkes Bay wineries are simply the icing on an already pretty fantastic cake.

Lake Taupo

Lake Taupo

At the largest lake in New Zealand, the clear blue tranquil waters of Lake Taupo hide a violent secret. It was formed over 25,000 years ago in a devastating volcanic explosion that literally removed the top of the volcano, leaving behind an enormous crater. As with most big holes in the ground of course, it eventually filled with water to become Lake Taupo.

Evidence of the energetic background to the area can be seen at the 'Craters of the Moon', nearby bubbling mud pools, alkaline springs and hot water geysers. If you feel energised after learning about Taupo's vigorous past, there are plenty of activities like jet skiing, parasailing, kayaking, skydiving and white water rafting keep you occupied.

Or simply pay a visit to the nearby 'Huka Falls' to experience the raw power of nature, where over 220,000 litres of water roar over the cliff face every second; you can even pay a visit to the base of the falls in a jet boat if you're feeling in the mood for a revitalising shower.
